INTRODUCTION

General Introduction

The Pennsylvania Department of Education provides districts and schools with tools to assist in delivering focused instructional programs aligned with the Pennsylvania Core Standards Assessment Anchors. These tools include assessment anchor documents, assessment handbooks, and content-based item and scoring samplers. This Item and Scoring Sampler is a useful tool for Pennsylvania educators to use in preparing local instructional programs. It can also be useful in preparing students for the statewide assessment.

Pennsylvania Core Standards (PCS)

This sampler contains examples of test questions and stimulus passages that are aligned to the new Pennsylvania Core Standards-based 2013 PSSA Assessment Anchors and Eligible Content. The Mathematics, Reading, and Writing PSSA will transition to PCS-based operational Mathematics and English Language Arts assessments starting with the spring 2015 PSSA administration; however, stimulus passages and multiple-choice, short answer, and writing prompt test questions appearing on the operational portions of the 2014 PSSA will align to both the current Pennsylvania Academic Standards and the new PCS.

What Is Included

This sampler contains stimulus reading passages with test questions, standalone questions, and mode-specific prompts that have been written to align to the Assessment Anchors that are based on the Pennsylvania Core Standards (PCS). The passages represent some of the genres approved by PDE to appear on an operational, PCS-based PSSA. The test questions provide an idea of the types of items that may appear on an operational, PCS-based PSSA. Each sample test question has been through a rigorous review process to ensure alignment with the Assessment Anchors.
Purpose and Uses

The passages, with test questions, non-passage-based questions, and mode-specific prompts in this sampler may be used as examples for creating assessment items at the classroom level, and they may also be copied and used as part of a local instructional program. In addition, classroom teachers may find it beneficial to have students respond to the test questions in this sampler. Educators can use the sampler as a guide to score the responses independently or together with colleagues within a school or district.

Item Format and Scoring Guidelines

The PCS-based PSSA has multiple types of test questions. For grade 3, the types of test questions are Multiple-Choice questions (MC), Selected-Response questions (SR), Short-Answer questions (SA), and mode-specific Prompts (P).

Multiple Choice: Each of this type of test question has four answer choices. Some MC test questions are based on a stimulus reading passage, while other MC test questions are independent of a passage. Each correct response to an MC test question is worth one point.

Selected Response: Each two-part SR question is designed to elicit an evidence-based response from a student who has read either a Literature or Informational Text passage. In Part One, which is similar to a multiple-choice question, the student analyzes a passage and chooses the best answer from four answer choices. In Part Two, the student elicits evidence from the passage to select one or more answers based on his/her response to Part One. Part Two is different from a multiple-choice question in that there may be more than four answer options and more than one correct answer. Each SR test question is worth either two or three points.

Short Answer: Each of this type of test question includes a short response space in which the student composes an answer based on the passage the student has read. An SA test question may include multiple tasks, and the student may be asked to provide a brief explanation. Each SA test question is scored using an item-specific scoring guideline based on a 0–3-point scoring guideline. In this sampler, every item-specific scoring guideline is combined with examples of student responses representing each score point to form a practical, item-specific scoring guide. This sampler also includes the General Description of Scoring Guidelines for Short-Answer Questions used to develop the item-specific guidelines. The general description of scoring guidelines should be used if any additional item-specific scoring guidelines are created for use within local instructional programs.

Prompt: Each of this type of test question includes an extended response space in which the student composes an answer based on a provided prompt. A prompt is based on a specific mode of writing and may ask the student to write an opinion essay, an informative essay, or a narrative essay. Each prompt is scored on a 1–4-point scale using a holistic, mode-specific scoring guideline. In this sampler, examples of student responses representing each score point can be combined with the mode-specific scoring guideline to form a practical scoring guide.

Testing Time and Mode of Testing Delivery for the PCS-Based PSSA

The PSSA is delivered in traditional paper-and-pencil format as well as in an online format. The estimated time to respond to a test question is the same for both methods of test delivery. The following table shows the estimated response time for each item type.

English Language Arts Grade 3

This English Language Arts Sampler is composed of 3 passages, 23 multiple-choice questions, 4 selected-response questions, 2 short-answer questions, 12 standalone multiple-choice questions, and 3 mode-specific prompts.

There are three passages in this booklet. The first passage is followed by a set of passage-based multiple-choice questions and a selected-response question. The second passage is followed by a set of passage-based multiple-choice questions, a selected-response question, and a three-point short-answer question. The third passage is followed by a set of passage-based multiple-choice questions, 2 selected-response questions, and a three-point short-answer question. This booklet also contains 12 standalone multiple-choice questions and 3 mode-specific prompts.

Each question is preceded by the Assessment Anchor and Eligible Content coding. The correct answer is indicated by an asterisk (*). Each question is followed by a brief analysis or rationale. Each short-answer question and prompt is displayed with an item-specific scoring guideline or mode-specific scoring guideline and examples of student responses with annotations at each scoring level.

The PCS-Based PSSA may be administered in paper-and-pencil format or online. As a result, this sampler includes samples of short-answer question responses and mode-specific prompt responses in both formats. A sample online response is noted by the symbol, □□□.
Section 1

Directions: On the following pages are passages and questions.

Directions for Multiple-Choice Questions:
Some questions will ask you to select an answer from among four choices. For the multiple-choice questions:
• First, read the passage carefully.
• Read each question and choose the best answer.
• Only one of the answers provided is correct.
• You may look back at the passage to help you answer the question.
• Fill in the circle next to the answer choice you select.
Directions for Selected-Response Questions:

Some questions will have two parts and will ask you to select one or more answers in each part.

For the selected-response questions:

- Read Part One of the question and choose the best answer.
- You may look back at the passage to help you answer Part One of the question.
- Fill in the circle next to the answer choice you select.
- Only one of the answers provided in Part One is correct.
- Then, read Part Two of the question and choose the best answer or answers based on your answer to Part One. If Part Two tells you to select two answers, be sure to select two answers.

- Fill in the circle or circles next to the answer choice or choices you select.

Directions for 3-Point Short-Answer Questions:

Some questions will require you to write your response.

For the short-answer questions:

- Be sure to read each short-answer question carefully.

PASSAGE 1

Read the following poem about enjoying words. Then answer questions 1 through 7.

Words Free As Confetti

by Pat Mora

Come, words, come in your every color.
I’ll toss you in storm or breeze.
I’ll say, say, say you,
taste you sweet as plump plums,
bitter as old lemons.
I’ll sniff you, words, warm
as almonds or tart as apple-red, feel you green
and soft as new grass,
lightwhite as dandelion plumes,
or thorngray as cactus,
heavy as black cement,
cold as blue icicles,
warm as abuelita’s\(^1\) yellowlap.
I’ll hear you, words, loud as searoar’s purple crash, hushed as gatitos\(^2\) curled in sleep,
as the last goldllullaby.
I’ll see you long and dark as tunnels,
bright as rainbows,
playful as chestnutwind.
I’ll watch you, words, rise and dance and spin.

---

\(^1\) abuelita (ah-bweh-LEE-tah)—grandmother
\(^2\) gatitos (ga-TEE-toce)—kittens
I’ll say, say, say you
in English,
in Spanish,
I’ll find you.

Hold you.
Toss you.
I’m free too.
I say yo soy libre\(^3\),
I am free
free, free,
free as confetti\(^4\).

\(^3\) yo soy libre (YO SOY LEE-bre)—I am free
\(^4\) confetti—small bits of colored paper thrown during a parade
MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONS

E03.A-V.4.1.2

1. The speaker uses the following lines to make a comparison about words.

and soft as new grass,
lightwhite as dandelion plumes,

The lines are used to show that the speaker sees words as

A. alive.
B. useful.
* C. gentle.
D. successful.

The student is asked to determine the meaning behind a comparison. The words “soft” and “lightwhite” indicate that words can be gentle, making option C the correct answer. There is no textual support for options A, B, or D.

E03.A-V.4.1.1

2. Read the line from the poem.

bright as rainbows,

Which meaning of bright is used in the line?

A. smart
B. filled with color
* C. shiny
D. filled with light

The student is asked to identify the correct meaning of a multi-meaning word from context. Option B is the correct answer since this choice makes the most sense in context. Options A, C, and D do not make sense in the context of the given line.
E03.A-K.1.1.1

3. Read the line from the poem.

   I’ll watch you, words, rise and dance and spin.

   What is the speaker doing?

   - A. swimming
   - B. reading
   - C. running
   - D. painting

   The student is asked to understand a given line from the poem. Option B is the correct answer since the poem is about words. Reading relates to words and, therefore, makes the most sense. Options A, C, and D do not relate to actions performed by the speaker in the poem.

E03.A-V.4.1.2

4. Which two words from the poem are most alike in meaning?

   - A. grass – plumes
   - B. bright – dark
   - C. bitter – tart
   - D. rise – spin

   The student is asked to identify two words that are most alike in meaning. Option C is the correct answer since “bitter” and “tart” are synonyms. Option B contains antonyms. Options A and D contain words that are not related at all.
E03.A-C.2.1.1

5. The words “I,” “I’ll,” and “I’m” reveal that the poem is told by

   A  a grandmother explaining her own opinions.
   B  a speaker revealing the thoughts of other characters.
   C  a grandmother telling about her experiences.
   D  a speaker sharing personal feelings.

   *The student is asked to understand the point of view in the poem. Option D is the correct answer since it corresponds with the examples of first-person point of view given in the stem. Options A and C are not correct since the grandmother is not the speaker. Option B is not correct since third-person point of view is not used in the poem.

E03.A-K.1.1.2

6. Which description best tells what happens in the poem?

   A  The speaker describes parts of nature experienced through the different senses. The speaker compares words to different features of nature. The speaker feels free.
   B  The speaker feels free. The speaker visits the sea and sees flowers. The speaker feels the breeze.
   C  The speaker describes things seen in the neighborhood. The speaker likes spending time with the grandmother smelling almonds. The speaker feels free.
   D  The speaker feels free. The speaker feels grass and tastes plums. The speaker sees cactus plants.

   *The student is asked to recount the events in the poem. Option A is the correct answer since it recounts the major events in the correct order. Options B and D contain minor events in the incorrect order. Option C contains incorrect events.
SELECTED-RESPONSE QUESTION

E03.A-K.1.1.2

7. This question has two parts. Answer Part One and then answer Part Two.

Part One

What would be another good title for this poem?

A. Having a Celebration
B. Making Up New Words
C. Words Floating on a Breeze
D. My Life Through Words

Part Two

What two lines from the poem support the answer in Part One? Choose two answers.

A. “I’ll toss you in storm or breeze.”
B. “playful as chestnutwind.”
C. “I’m free too.”
D. “or thorngray as cactus.”

The student is asked to select another title for the poem to show understanding of the central message and select details from the poem that support this message.

Part One: Option D is the correct answer since the speaker shares his or her experiences in nature through descriptions using words. Options A, B, and C are not supported by information in the poem.

Part Two: Options B and D are the correct answers since they relate words to the speaker’s experiences with nature. Options A and C do not relate to the speaker’s experiences in nature.
The Door in the Ground
by Laura Ingalls Wilder

The dim wagon track went no farther on the prairie, and Pa stopped the horses.

When the wagon wheels stopped turning, Jack dropped down in the shade between them. His belly sank on the grass and his front legs stretched out. His nose fitted in the furry hollow. All of him rested, except his ears.

All day long for many, many days, Jack had been trotting under the wagon. He had trotted all the way from the little log house in Indian Territory, across Kansas, across Missouri, across Iowa, and a long way into Minnesota. He had learned to take his rest whenever the wagon stopped.

In the wagon Laura jumped up, and so did Mary. Their legs were tired of not moving.

“This must be the place,” Pa said. “It’s half a mile up the creek from Nelson’s. We’ve come a good half-mile, and there’s the creek.”

Laura could not see a creek. She saw a grassy bank, and beyond it a line of willow-tree tops, waving in the gentle wind. Everywhere else the prairie grasses were rippling far away to the sky’s straight edge.

“Seems to be some kind of stable over there,” said Pa, looking around the edge of the canvas wagon-cover. “But where’s the house?”

Laura jumped inside her skin. A man was standing beside the horses. No one had been in sight anywhere, but suddenly that man was there. His hair was pale yellow. His eyes were so pale that they looked like a mistake. Jack growled.

“Be still, Jack!” said Pa. He asked the man, “Are you Mr. Hanson?”
“Yah,” the man said.

Pa spoke slowly and loudly. “I heard you want to go west. You trade your place?”

The man looked slowly at the wagon. He looked at the mustangs, Pet and Patty. After a while he said again, “Yah.”

Pa got out of the wagon, and Ma said, “You can climb out and run around, girls, I know you are tired, sitting still.”

Jack got up when Laura climbed down the wagon wheel, but he had to stay under the wagon until Pa said he might go. He looked out at Laura while she ran along a little path that was there.

The path went across short sunny grass, to the edge of the bank. Down below it was the creek, rippling and glistening in the sunshine. The willow trees grew up beyond the creek.

Over the edge of the bank, the path turned and went slanting down, close against the grassy bank that rose up like a wall.

Laura went down it cautiously. The bank rose up beside her till she could not see the wagon. There was only the high sky above her, and down below her the water was talking to itself. Laura went a step farther, then one more step. The path stopped at a wider, flat place, where it turned and dropped down to the creek in stair-steps. Then Laura saw the door.

The door stood straight up in the grassy bank, where the path turned. It was like a house door, but whatever was behind it was under the ground. The door was shut.

In front of it lay two big dogs with ugly faces. They saw Laura and slowly rose up.

Laura ran very fast, up the path to the safe wagon. Mary was standing there, and Laura whispered to her, “There’s a door in the ground, and two big dogs—” She looked behind her. The two dogs were coming.

Jack’s deep growl rolled from under the wagon. He showed those dogs his fierce teeth.

“Those your dogs?” Pa said to Mr. Hanson. Mr. Hanson turned and spoke words that Laura could not understand. But the dogs understood. One behind the other, they slunk over the edge of that bank, down out of sight.
Pa and Mr. Hanson walked slowly away toward the stable. The stable was small and it was not made of logs. Grass grew on its walls and its roof was covered with growing grasses, blowing in the wind.

Laura and Mary stayed near the wagon, where Jack was. They looked at the prairie grasses swaying and bending, and yellow flowers nodding. Birds rose and flew and sank into the grasses. The sky curved very high and its rim came neatly down to the faraway edge of the round earth.

When Pa and Mr. Hanson came back, they heard Pa say: “All right, Hanson. We’ll go to town tomorrow and fix up the papers. Tonight we’ll camp here.”

“Yah, yah!” Mr. Hanson agreed.

Pa boosted Mary and Laura into the wagon and drove out on the prairie. He told Ma that he had traded Pet and Patty for Mr. Hanson’s land. He had traded Bunny, the mule-colt, and the wagon-cover for Mr. Hanson’s crops and his oxen.

He unhitched Pet and Patty and led them to the creek to drink. He put them on their picket-lines and helped Ma make camp for the night. Laura was quiet. She did not want to play and she was not hungry when they all sat eating supper by the campfire.

“The last night out,” said Pa. “Tomorrow we’ll be settled again. The house is in the creek bank, Caroline.”

“Oh, Charles!” said Ma. “A dugout. We’ve never had to live in a dugout yet.”

“I think you’ll find it very clean,” Pa told her. “It will be snug for winter, and that’s not far away.”

“Yes, it will be nice to be settled before snow flies,” Ma agreed.

“It’s only till I harvest the first wheat crop,” said Pa. “Then you’ll have a fine house and I’ll have horses and maybe even a buggy. This is great wheat country, Caroline! Rich, level land, with not a tree or a rock to contend with. I can’t make out why Hanson sowed such a small field. It must have been a dry season, or Hanson’s no farmer, his wheat is so thin and light.”

Beyond the fire-light, Pet and Patty and Bunny were eating grass. They bit it off with sharp, pulling crunches, and then stood chewing it and looking through the dark at the low stars shining. They switched their tails peacefully. They did not know they had been traded.
Laura was a big girl, seven years old. She was too big to cry. But she could not help asking, “Pa, did you have to give him Pet and Patty? Did you, Pa?”

Pa’s arm drew her close to him in a cuddly hug.

“Why, little half-pint,” Pa said. “Pet and Patty like to travel. They are little ponies, Laura, and plowing is too hard work for them. They will be much happier, traveling out west. You wouldn’t want to keep them here, breaking their hearts on a plow. Pet and Patty will go on traveling, and with those big oxen I can break up a great big field and have it ready for wheat next spring.

“A good crop of wheat will bring us more money than we’ve ever had, Laura. Then we’ll have horses, and new dresses, and everything you can want.”

Laura did not say anything. She felt better with Pa’s arm around her, but she did not want anything except to keep Pet and Patty and Bunny, the long-eared colt.
MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONS

E03.A-K.1.1.1

8. Which sentence from the passage tells why Pa had to trade the horses, Pet and Patty?
   A  “He unhitched Pet and Patty and led them to the creek to drink.”
   B  “‘Yes, it will be nice to be settled before snow flies,’ Ma agreed.”
   C  “Beyond the fire-light, Pet and Patty and Bunny were eating grass.”
   * D  “‘They are little ponies, Laura, and plowing is too hard work for them.’ ”

The student is asked to identify a sentence from the passage that supports an action from the passage. Option D is the correct answer since Pa needs animals that can plow a field, and plowing would be too difficult for such small animals. Options A and C relate to the ponies but do not answer the question of why Pa trades the ponies. Option B does not relate to the ponies at all.

E03.A-V.4.1.1

9. The meaning of the suffix “-ly” helps the reader know the word “loudly” means
   * A  in a loud way.
   B  one who is loud.
   C  less loud.
   D  not loud.

The student is asked to identify the meaning of a given word with a given suffix. Option A is the correct answer since “loudly” means “in a loud way.” Options B, C, and D are not correct since they give meanings for the suffix “-ly” that are not correct.
E03.A-K.1.1.1

10. Which sentence from the passage shows that Pa planned to buy the land before bringing his family?

* A  “‘This must be the place,’ Pa said.”
B  “‘Seems to be some kind of stable over there,’ said Pa . . .”
C  “‘We’ll go to town tomorrow and fix up the papers.’”
D  “‘It’s only till I harvest the first wheat crop,’ said Pa.”

The student is asked to identify a sentence from the passage that supports the idea that Pa planned to buy the land before bringing his family. Option A is the correct answer since it shows that Pa has an idea of the land’s location. Options B, C, and D do not relate to Pa’s planning to buy the land before he brought his family.

E03.A-V.4.1.2

11. Read the sentence from the passage.

There was only the high sky above her, and down below her the water was talking to itself.

What does the phrase “talking to itself” mean about the water?

* A  It is noisy.
B  It may be dangerous.
C  It is moving swiftly.
D  It would be fun for swimming.

The student is asked to interpret a phrase from the passage. Option A is the correct answer since “noisy” is a quality that talking can have. Options B, C, and D are not supported by the context of the given sentence.
12. Read the dictionary definition.

level (le-vel) adj. 1. filled to a height even with the rim of a container. 2. having no part higher than another. verb. 3. to raise or lower to a particular position. 4. to speak truthfully and openly.

Which definition of level is used in the passage?

- A  definition 1
- B  definition 2
- C  definition 3
- D  definition 4

The student is asked to identify the meaning of a given multi-meaning word by using the context of the passage. Option B is the correct answer since definition 2 makes sense within the context of the passage. Options A, C, and D are not supported by the context of the passage.

13. Read the sentences from the passage.

But she could not help asking, “Pa, did you have to give him Pet and Patty? Did you, Pa?”

How does Laura’s sadness lead to the next event in the passage?

- A  Pet and Patty munch on grass under the stars.
- B  Pa explains that ponies like to travel and cannot work on a farm.
- C  Pet and Patty go down to the creek for a drink.
- D  Pa describes what they will be able to buy after their first wheat crop.

The student is asked to understand how the given character’s feeling of sadness leads to the next event in the passage. Option B is the correct answer. Laura tells Pa that she is upset over him selling their ponies. He then tells Laura that the ponies are too small to work on a farm. Options A and C do not relate to Laura’s feelings of sadness and occur prior to Laura’s communicating her feelings to her father. Option D occurs after Laura tells Pa about her feelings; however, it does not relate to the next event of Pa’s telling Laura why he sold the ponies.
E03.A-V.4.1.2

14. Which two words from the passage are most alike in meaning?

A  turned – trotted
B  climbed – sank
C  stopped – drove
D  spoke – whispered

* The student is asked to identify two words that are most alike in meaning. Option D is the correct answer since “spoke” and “whispered” relate to speech. Options A, B, and C contain words that are not related in action or function.

E03.A-C.2.1.1

15. What would the reader most likely know if Hanson were telling about the events?

A  how big the farm on the prairie is
B  what Pa thinks about Hanson
C  what Hanson thinks about the trade
D  how long the family has been traveling

* The student is asked to understand what the reader would know if Hanson were telling the events in the passage. Option C is the correct answer because it refers to Hanson’s direct experience. Options A, B, and D do not refer to events in the passage that the reader would know only through Hanson’s point of view.
E03.A-K.1.1.2

16. What description best recounts the passage?

A  A man moves his family to a prairie. They use two ponies to work hard growing wheat. They are able to earn more money than they ever had before.

B  A family moves near a creek. A girl and her dog enjoy playing in the grass near the creek. She is glad to have two new ponies.

C  A man moves his family to a new place. They buy a house and two ponies. The daughter spends all of her time riding the ponies along the side of the creek.

D  A family moves to a prairie. The father trades much of what they own to get a house, crops, and oxen. The daughter is sad because their two ponies are traded.

The student is asked to recount the events in the passage. Option D is the correct answer since it recounts the main events of the plot in the correct order. Options A, B, and C contain information that is not contained in the passage.
SELECTED-RESPONSE QUESTION

17. This question has two parts. Answer Part One and then answer Part Two.

Part One

What lesson does Laura learn in the passage?

A. Children should never wander off on their own.
B. We should do what is best for those we love, even if it makes us sad.
C. Even if you know you can’t win, you should always try to do your best.
D. There’s no place like home.

D. Pa and Hanson talk with one another and then make trades.

The student is asked to identify the lesson that Laura learns in the passage and to select one detail from the passage that best supports this lesson.

Part One: Option B is the correct answer since Pa has done the right thing for the ponies even though he knows it will make the family sad. Options A, C, and D are not supported by information in the passage.

Part Two: Option B is the correct answer since Pa explains to Laura why he has sold the ponies. Options A, C, and D do not relate to the message of the passage.
18. How does the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson lead to other events in the passage? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

18. How does the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson lead to other events in the passage? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

The interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson lead to other events in many ways. The family needs somewhere to live and Mr Hanson needs ponies so he can move. If Pa didn’t trade the ponies, the family would have no place to live but not having the ponies made the girl very sad. For example, she asked Pa “Did you have to give him pet and Patty?” If Pa didn’t traded the wagon cover for crops, the family would probably die in the winter without food or money. Even tho no one really likes it there at first, Pa tells them things are going to get better after he grows his own crops.

The response is a clear, complete, and accurate explanation of how the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson leads to other events in the passage (“The family needs somewhere to live and Mr Hanson needs ponies so he can move”). The response includes relevant and specific information from the passage (“For example, she asked Pa ‘Did you have to give him pet and Patty?’ ” and “Pa tells them things are going to get better”).
18. How does the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson lead to other events in the passage? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

Pa and Mr. Hanson traded the ponies for Mr. Hanson’s land, then the people talk about what it’s going to be like in their new house. The mom isn’t happy about living in the ground but Pa promises to build her a new house after he grows wheat.

The response is a partial explanation of how the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson leads to other events in the passage (“people talk about what it’s going to be like in their new house”). The response includes limited information from the passage (“the mom isn’t happy about living in the ground but Pa promises to build her a new house”).
18. How does the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson lead to other events in the passage? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

Mr. Hansen needed ponys so he could move so Pa traded them for a big house that was dug in the ground.

The response is a minimal explanation of how the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson leads to other events in the passage ("Mr. Hansen needed ponys so he could move") and includes little information from the passage ("Pa traded them [ponies] for a big house").
18. How does the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson lead to other events in the passage? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

There was a door in the ground and two big dogs.

The response is composed of information which is totally irrelevant to the task of explaining how the interaction between the family and Mr. Hanson leads to other events in the passage.
PASSAGE 3

Read the following passage about animals playing. Then answer questions 19 through 29.

Animals at Play

by Aline Alexander Newman

Splash! Limbs flailing, a rhesus monkey takes a flying leap from a mangrove tree into a tropical pond. Then gurgle, glub—under it goes, as another monkey dive-bombs onto his head. Like human kids fooling around in a backyard pool, monkeys play for hours. So do bears, dolphins, tigers, and foxes!

These animals aren’t feeding, hunting, defending their territory, or traveling. They’re playing—meaning they’re doing something simply for fun. But animal play is not a waste of time or energy. Scientists think play may be as important as food and sleep. Why? It promotes brain development and health. It lets animals (and kids) explore their surroundings and invent new behaviors. And it helps them adapt to a changing world.

Clueless Bear

Bear cubs born to more playful mothers stand the best chance of survival. This discovery was made by research biologist Robert Fagen, of Fairbanks, Alaska, who spent ten summers studying brown bears on Alaska’s Admiralty Island. “We know that’s true,” says Fagen. “But we don’t yet know why.” Cowboy, one of Fagen’s study bears, grew up as an only cub. His mom liked to wrestle and play, which provided enough playtime for a while. But when Cowboy turned three, he began searching for younger playmates.

The trouble was that Cowboy was clueless about how to make friends. Whenever he encountered another cub in the forest, Cowboy would roar and act as if he were going to attack. “He was just trying to be friendly,” says Fagen. “But he was misunderstood. When his bluff-charge didn’t work, Cowboy would dig a hole in the ground to curl up in. He’d look totally miserable.”

One day Cowboy tried a new approach. He began following another bear. The stranger zigged and zagged trying to lose him. But Cowboy stayed on his tail. For two days the bears paced like boxers in a ring. Then they staged a pretend fight. After that the playful Cowboy wasn’t lonely anymore. By summer’s end, he had rounded up ten bear buddies who hung out together year after year. One of those “buddies,” a honey-colored female, became his mate.

Together Time

Other animals also play in groups. In Botswana, in Africa, Chris Johns, a National Geographic wildlife photographer, spotted a litter of African wild dogs acting rowdy. The pups played games like tug-of-war for hours.

In addition to helping an animal find a mate and bond with a group, social play serves as a testing ground. “Already those pups were starting to determine who will be the alpha male and alpha female (the pack leaders),” says Johns. At the same time, they were building muscles and developing the speed and agility necessary to catch impalas and outrun lions.

Half a world away, writer Gary Paulsen was racing sled dogs in Alaska. One day, while resting his team, he spent almost an hour lying on top of a ridge and peering down at a herd of “ice-skating” bison! One after another, each bison backed partway up the hill, pawed the ground like a charging bull, and galloped toward a frozen lake. When it hit the ice, the bison would lift its tail and lock its knees. Then it would zip across the slippery surface—spinning in circles. After slowing to a stop, the bison bellowed loudly, slid back to shore—and did it all over again.

Surprising Playmates

Most of the time cheetahs play with cheetahs and monkeys play with monkeys.
But not always. Play between species may be rare in the wild, but it happens. Roger Payne, director of the Whale Conservation Institute in Lincoln, Massachusetts, says sea lions often play in the wake left by a passing whale. But once he saw a sea lion pup diving and rolling behind a whale that was lying perfectly still—except for whipping up waves with her tail. “It looked like the whale was creating currents for the benefit of the pup,” says Payne.

Toy Story

Lots of animals play with toys. Large parrots called keas play catch with sticks, roll snowballs, and swing on swings. Bottlenose dolphins blow underwater bubble rings, and then spin and flip their bubble toys with their fins.

Do all animals play? Nobody knows for sure, but the evidence that many species do is convincing. While play behavior in insects, most birds, reptiles, and amphibians may be questionable, there is little doubt that chimpanzees, elephants, and other mammals with large, well-developed brains play.

One thing’s for sure. Whether you wrestle, swim, or figure skate, you’re not alone. Somewhere other animals are doing it, too!

Just for dog laughs!

Everybody knows dogs bark and growl. But animal behaviorist Patricia Simonet of Lake Tahoe, Nevada, recently discovered that dogs also laugh when they play. Dog laughs are so high-pitched that some of the sound is beyond the range of human hearing. Simonet heard the entire sound of laughter on tapes made with special recording equipment. She found that dogs laugh while playing and also laugh to invite each other to play.
MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONS

E03.B-V.4.1.1

19. The suffix “-less” helps the reader know that the word “clueless” means

- A made of clues.
- B without clues.
- C one who has clues.

The student is asked to identify the meaning of a given word with a given suffix. Option B is the correct answer since the suffix “-less” means “without.” Options A, C, and D are not the correct meanings of “clueless.”

E03.B-V.4.1.1

20. What does the word miserable mean as used in the passage?

- A kind
- B sad
- C relaxed
- D afraid

The student is asked to determine the meaning of “miserable” by using context clues. Option B is the correct answer since “sad” is the correct meaning of “miserable.” Options A, C, and D are not the correct meaning of “miserable.”
21. Read the sentence from the passage.

By summer’s end, he had rounded up ten bear buddies who hung out together year after year.

What does the phrase “rounded up” mean?

A  ignored
B  changed
C  gathered

22. Which sentence from the passage best describes the effect of Cowboy following another bear?

A  “Cowboy, one of Fagen’s study bears, grew up as an only cub.”
B  “But when Cowboy turned three, he began searching for younger playmates.”
C  “After that the playful Cowboy wasn’t lonely anymore.”
D  “One day Cowboy tried a new approach.”

---

The student is asked to identify the effect of Cowboy following another bear. Option C is the correct answer. “After that the playful Cowboy wasn’t lonely anymore” describes the relationship between these two events. Options A, B, and D do not relate to the given event.
23. Read the sentences from the passage.

His mom liked to wrestle and play, which provided enough playtime for a while. But when Cowboy turned three, he began searching for younger playmates.

What point is the author making with the details in these sentences?

* A  Bear cubs are very active and need to play.
  B  Mother bears take good care of their cubs.
  C  Mother bears are very protective of their cubs.
  D  Bear cubs are too busy to play games.

The student is asked to identify the author’s point using details from the passage. Option A is the correct answer. Cowboy began looking for young playmates since he was very active and needed more playtime than his mother could give him. Option B is supported by the passage but is not the point the author is making with these sentences. Options C and D are not supported by information in the passage.

24. Which detail from the passage explains why animals play?

  A  “But animal play is not a waste of time or energy.”
  B  “It promotes brain development and health.”
  C  “Play between species may be rare in the wild, but it happens.”
  D  “Whether you wrestle, swim, or figure skate, you’re not alone.”

The student is asked to identify an explicit detail from the passage that explains why animals play. Option B is the correct answer since it is explicitly stated in the text why animals play. Options A, C, and D relate to animal play but do not answer the question.
E03.B-C.2.1.1

25. Which point of view is used in the passage?

- A  first person through writer Gary Paulsen
- B  third person through a scientist who studies only mammals
- C  first person through director Roger Payne
- D  third person through someone interested in animal behavior

The student is asked to explain the point of view used in the passage. Option D is the correct answer. Option B is incorrect since there is no evidence that the author is a scientist. Options A and C are incorrect since the word “I” is not used in the passage.

E03.B-C.3.1.3

26. Which idea in the passage does the text box about dog laughter support?

- A  Animals often defend their territory.
- B  Animals use play to practice hunting.
- C  Animals have many types of play behaviors.
- D  Animals like to explore their surroundings.

The student is asked to identify an idea from the passage that is supported by information in the text box. Option C is the correct answer since the text box discusses how dog laughter is an example of animal play. Animal play is the central idea of the passage. Options A, B, and D do not relate to the topic of dog laughter in the passage.

29. How does the description of the “ice-skating” bison support the idea that animals play in groups? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

The description of ice-skating bison supports the idea that animals play in groups by showing how some bison play together. It showed how they played on some ice so that I could understand that bison play together just like tigers and the clueless bear Cowboy. For example it said “one after another, each bison backed partway up the hill, pawed the ground like a charging bull and galloped toward a frozen lake”. Then they skate on ice! Then it said they would bellow loudly and do it all again because it’s fun to play together.

The response is a clear explanation of how the description of the “ice-skating” bison supports the idea that animals play in groups (“It showed how they played on some ice . . . just like tigers and the clueless bear Cowboy” and “they would bellow loudly and do it all again because it’s fun to play together”). The response includes relevant and specific information from the passage (“‘one after another, each bison backed partway up the hill, pawed the ground like a charging bull and galloped toward a frozen lake’”).
29. How does the description of the “ice-skating” bison support the idea that animals play in groups? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

The bison in the story are running down a hill and sliding on a frozen pond. They took turns just like we do on the playground! And they “bellow,” which sounds like they are having fun playing on the frozen lake together.

The response is a partial explanation of how the description of the “ice-skating” bison supports the idea that animals play in groups (“They took turns just like we do” and “they are having fun playing on the frozen lake together”). The response includes limited information from the passage (“The bison . . . are running down a hill and sliding on a frozen pond” and “they ‘bellow’”).

29. How does the description of the “ice-skating” bison support the idea that animals play in groups? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

The bison slipping on some ice and then they bellows!

The response relates minimally to the task ("bison slipping on some ice and then they bellows").
29. How does the description of the “ice-skating” bison support the idea that animals play in groups? Use information from the passage to support your answer.

My dog Charlie can’t laugh. He’s just a dog!!!

STANDALONE MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONS

E03.D.1.1.1

30. Read the sentence.

On Saturday we thought the grass looked really tall.

Which word describes the grass?

A  thought
B  looked
C  really
D  tall

Students are asked to analyze the sentence to determine which word describes the grass. Students need to understand the way each word functions in the sentence and determine which word functions as an adjective of “grass.” Option A, “thought,” and option B, “looked,” both function as verbs in the sentence. Option C, “really,” functions as an adverb in the sentence. Option D, “tall,” is the correct answer because it functions as an adjective and describes the grass.
E03.D.1.1.3

31. Read the sentence.

We listened as Mary explained her _______ about how long we should practice for the program.

Which word best completes the sentence?

- A liberty
- B mood
- C opinion
- D opportunity

Students are asked to review each answer option to determine which word correctly completes the sentence. Students may think that options A, B, and D are possible answers because they are nouns that could be placed in the sentence as a direct object; however, none of the options complete a sentence in a way that makes sense. Option C is the correct answer because it is the only option that, when added, completes a sentence that makes sense.
E03.D.1.1.4

32. Read the sentences.

It began to rain just as we got to my friend’s house. When we ringed the doorbell, my friend came to the door right away to make sure we did not get wet.

Which underlined word should be changed to correct a mistake?

A  began

B  got

* C  ringed

D  came

Students are asked to review each underlined verb to determine which has been formed incorrectly. Students need to understand how to form and use irregular verbs. Each option is an irregular verb, and one is used incorrectly. For option A, students must determine whether “began” is the correct form of the verb “to begin” in the context of this sentence. Students who are not proficient in this skill may think “began” should be “begun.” Similarly, some students may think option B, “got,” is the incorrectly formed verb and that it should be “get” or “gotten.” Others may think option D, “came,” should be “come.” However, options A, B, and D represent the correct verb form. Option C is the correct answer because “ringed” is not the past-tense form of the verb “to ring.” This irregular verb should be written as “rang.”
E03.D.1.1.6

33. Read the sentence.

Dave and John was told that they could bring their new books to class with them.

Which part of the sentence has a mistake?

A part 1
B part 2
C part 3
D part 4

Students are asked to analyze the sentence to determine which part of the sentence contains an error. Students need to know to look for errors in spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, or usage. Students may think option B, part 2 of the sentence, contains an error in pronoun-antecedent agreement. Others may think option C, part 3 of the sentence, contains a usage error (their/there and new/knew). Some students may think option D, part 4 of the sentence, contains an error in pronoun-antecedent agreement. Option A, part 1 of the sentence, is the correct answer because it contains an error in subject-verb agreement (“was” should be “were”).
E03.D.1.1.7

34. Read the sentence.

She was able to wake up __________ than the rest of the children.

Which word or words correctly complete the sentence?

* A earlier

 B earliest

 C more earlier

 D most earliest

Students are asked to review the answer options to determine the word or words that correctly complete the sentence. Students need to know how to form and use comparative and superlative adverbs. Option B is a superlative adverb that would not correctly complete the sentence. Option C shows an incorrect use of a comparative adverb. Option D shows an incorrect use of a superlative adverb. Option A is the correct answer because the comparative adverb correctly completes the sentence.

E03.D.1.1.8

35. Read the sentence.

It just started raining, _____ we can’t go outside to play.

Which word correctly completes the sentence?

* A or

 B so

 C but

 D for

Students are asked to determine the coordinating conjunction that correctly completes the sentence. Options A, C, and D do not correctly complete the sentence. In these cases, the conjunctions “or,” “but,” and “for” do not connect the two clauses in a way that reflects their logical relationship. Option B, “so,” is the correct answer because it correctly connects the ideas in the sentence by suggesting that the group the narrator is a part of cannot play outside because of the rain.
E03.D.1.1.9

36. Read the information.

I love my pet puppy Peanut.

Peanut sometimes worries me.

Choose the correct way to write the information as a compound sentence.

A  Although I love my pet puppy Peanut, sometimes she worries me.
B  Because she sometimes worries me, I love my pet puppy Peanut.
* C  I love my pet puppy Peanut, but sometimes she worries me.
D  With all the worry that she causes me, I still love my pet puppy Peanut.

Students are asked to choose the correct way to write the information as a compound sentence. Students need to analyze each answer option to determine which option demonstrates the correct way to write the information as a compound sentence. Both options A and D correctly write the information, but both options are examples of complex sentences because they contain dependent clauses that precede, in these examples, independent clauses. Option D, while being a correct way to write the information, is an example of a simple sentence. Option C is the only option that demonstrates the correct way to write the information as a compound sentence.

E03.D.1.2.1

37. Which sentence has a mistake in capitalization?

A  We enjoyed reading the play If You Give a Mouse a Cookie.
B  Our class loudly sang the song “It’s a Small World” at the show.
C  My favorite chapter in the book is called “First Day of Spring.”
* D  I read the book Two little Trains three times already today.

Students are asked to analyze each sentence to identify which option contains a capitalization error. Students need to know how to apply capitalization appropriately. For option A, students need to know how to correctly capitalize words in a title of a play. Option B requires that students know how to capitalize words in a title of a song, and for option C students need to know how to capitalize words in the title of a chapter of a book. The titles in options A, B, and C are correctly capitalized and correctly leave the article “a” and the preposition “of” lowercase. Option D is the correct answer because the word “little” in the book title should be capitalized.
E03.D.1.2.2

38. Which sentence uses commas correctly?

A  I live at 500 Grant Avenue, Harrisburg Pennsylvania.
B  My friend lives at 2020, South River Street, Erie Pennsylvania.
C  I must travel to 124 North Center Street Johnstown, Pennsylvania.
D  She works at 6226 West Forest Road, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Students are asked to analyze each sentence to determine which sentence correctly uses commas. Students need to know how to use commas in an address. Option A is missing a comma between the city and the state. Option B has an extra comma after “2020” and is also missing a comma between the city and the state. Option C is missing a comma after “Street.” Option D is the correct answer because it uses commas correctly. This option has a comma after “Road” and a comma between the city and the state.

E03.D.1.2.3

39. Which sentence is punctuated correctly?

A  He said “My new kitten loves to roll in the grass.”
B  He “said My new kitten loves to roll in the grass.”
C  He said, “My new kitten loves to roll in the grass.”
D  “He said, My new kitten loves to roll in the grass.”

Students are asked to analyze each option to determine which sentence is correctly punctuated. Students need to understand how to use commas and quotation marks in dialogue. Option A is missing a comma after “said.” Option B is missing a comma after “said” and has incorrectly placed the first quotation mark. Option D has also placed the first quotation mark incorrectly. Option C is the correct answer because the comma and quotation marks are used correctly.
E03.D.1.2.4

40. Which sentence has an apostrophe mistake?

A  All three islands’ beaches are made up of black sand.
B  The captain’s busy crew raised the sails in a hurry.
C  All the workers’ loaded their tools on the truck.
D  The parade’s first group was a marching band.

Students are asked to analyze each option to determine which sentence has an apostrophe mistake. Students need to know how to form possessives using apostrophes. Option A uses an apostrophe correctly because “islands’” is plural and shows possession. Options B and D use apostrophes correctly because the words “captain’s” and “parade’s” are singular and show possession. Option C is the correct answer because the word “workers’” should be plural but not possessive, so it should not have an apostrophe.
41. Read the sentence.

On Wednesday our neighbor invited us to the school picnic.

Which underlined word in the sentence is spelled wrong?

A. Wednesday
B. neighbor
C. school
D. *picnik

Students are asked to review the underlined words to determine which word is spelled incorrectly. Students may select option A if they think “Wednesday” should be spelled “Wensday,” “Wedsday,” or “Wendsday.” Likewise, students may select option B if they think “neighbor” should be spelled “neibor,” “neighbor,” or “neihber.” Students may select option C if they think “school” should be spelled “skool,” “scool,” or “schule.” Option D is the correct answer because “picnik” should be spelled “picnic.”

The best part of the school day is specialist. This is when we go to music, gym, art, or media center. We go to a different specialist each day. I like going to them.

Music is with Dr. Brown. She is fun. Sometimes we sing funny songs. Sometimes we play different drums. We are learning a new song with actions. We will sing it for the whole school at the spring concert. The song is about rain and the actions are neat. That is why music is great.

Gym is with Mr. Kingston. He makes us stretch our muscles. The best days are when we go on the climbing wall and if you get to the top you touch the golden Ring. I touched it last week for the first time. Now you know why I think gym is great.

Art is with Ms. L. She is strict. I used to like art but that was with Mrs. Smith. She was nice. I like when we get to free draw.

Think about which part of the school day you think is best. Maybe it is lunch or recess. Maybe it is a class, such as reading or math. Why do you think this is the best part of the school day?

Write an essay for your teacher that states your opinion about what is the best part of the school day and explains why. Use details and reasons to support your opinion.

Reading is the best part of the day. I like to read. I read lots of books. Right now I am reading a book called Spy School. It is really cool. It is about a boy who goes to a spy school. His parents don’t know it is a spy school and he lerns tons of spy thnks. It is a cool book. We have a partner reading time which is kinda like a book club. We meet two times a week and talk about a few chaptrs. We decide how many more chapters to read fur the net time we meat. We also have buddy reading with the 5 gradrs. I like when the big kids come down and read with us. My buddy is Ally She is really fun! The other days we do silent reading. That is when most of us read by ourself. Our teacher meets with small groups of us to teach us reading stuff. I read green dot books right now but I want to read silver dot books. The silver dot book I want to read the most is called Radience. The cover has a cool picture on it. My buddy Ally read it and liked it, We also write post it notes with new words or queshions when we are reading. Those are ll my reasons why reading is the best part of the day. What is the best part of your day?

Response Score: 3

There is a clear opinion (“Reading is the best part of the day”) that is introduced, developed, and concluded with general awareness of task, purpose, and audience. The writer provides adequate and relevant content (“two times a week,” “5 gradrs,” “green dot books”) that demonstrates an understanding of the purpose. Sufficient elaboration is clearly presented in logically grouped segments about the book he or she is currently reading, partner reading, buddy reading, and independent reading. The writer concludes the response with both a summary statement (“Those are [a]ll my reasons”) and audience awareness (“What is the best part of your day?”). There is adequate control of sentence formation, and some errors are present in spelling (“lerns,” “thnks,” “chaptrs,” “fur” vs. for, “net” vs. next, “budy,” “gradrs,” “oursely,” “queshions”), grammar, and usage (“kinda” vs. kind of, “meat” vs. meet, “[a]ll my reasons” vs. all of my reasons).
I think recess is best. I like being outside. I hate waiting in line for the swings. It is great when there is no line. The swings are my favorite. Kids that get in trouble have to sit on the bench. One time I cut in line at the swing. I had to sit on the bench. I was mad. There are swings, hula hoops, balls, climber, big field, 4 skware. I like swings best.

Response Score: 2

The student states the opinion that “recess is best” and develops the idea with a concentration on swings. The response lacks an organizational structure; however, the opinions and reasons are somewhat connected (“when,” “One time”). There is inadequate content that demonstrates a weak understanding of the purpose, and the response is underdeveloped. The reader only learns about the swings and the bench for recess until a bare list is included toward the end of the response (“swings, hula hoops, balls, climber, big field, 4 skware”). Errors are present in spelling (“reces,” “truble,” “skware”) and the “and” is missing in the list cited above.
Response Score: 1

The student states the opinion that “Lunch is the best!” However, this idea is only introduced in this brief response; the opinion is undeveloped with little support. The minimal content (“Italian dunkers like bread sticks from Corner Pizza by my house”) demonstrates little awareness of task and purpose. There is minimal order and organizational structure. The response lacks a conclusion. Errors are present in sentence formation and spelling.

My mom and dad say I do lots of things really well. I'm especially good at playing sports. I think I am best at playing tennis. I have played since I was 4 years old and started taking lessons when I was 5. If I had to explain something to a younger person, I'd explain how to play tennis.

First, you need your tennis gear. You must wear gym shoes, so you can run fast. You need a tennis racket. My racket is dark blue. Some places give you a racket. That may cost money but I don't remember how much. You play with yellow tennis balls. Your coach will have some. Or you can buy them at a sports goods store like Dick's.

Second, you need to listen to the coach because he will teach you how to do it right. You have to hit the ball with the racket. You don't hit the ball with your hand. You don't kick the ball. There is a net in the middle. You want to get the ball over the net. When I started I hit the net a lot. That is why I practice. I practice a lot.

Something I do well is gymnastics. I have been doing gymnastics since I was 3 years old. My sister does gymnastics. Her name is Sonya. My name is Becky. We do gymnastics at Rising Starship. I am going to tell you who to do gymnastics well. So pay attention.

First you need to stretch or warm up. My favorite stretch is the butterfly. Next you run around the blue mat. It is bouncy. On the mat you do flips to music. It is important to remember you’re ruleen. We also do bar, balance beam and I will learn to vault soon. So that is how you do gymnastics. Make sure you listen to your coach to stay safe and to learn.

Response Score: 3

A clear topic is introduced (“gymnastics”), developed, and concluded with general awareness of the task of explaining to a younger person what you need to do (“I am going to tell you who [how] to do gymnastics well.”). Clear transitions connect ideas and concepts (“First,” “Next,” “also,” “So”). There is sufficient elaboration with clearly presented information, which is supported with facts (“doing gymnastics since I was 3 years old,” “Rising Starship”), examples (“blue mat,” “bouncy”), and concrete details (“favorite stretch is the butterfly”). There is adequate control of sentence formation. While some errors are present in grammar, usage (“you’re” vs. your), spelling (“attention,” “butterfly,” “ruleen,” “beem,” “vact”), and punctuation, the errors do not interfere with meaning.
If you had to explain to a younger person how to do something that you or someone you know does well, what would it be? It could be something that is done at school, at home, or in your community.

Write an essay for a younger person that explains how to do something that you or someone you know does well. Use details and examples to support your explanation.

I can spell really well I am the best speller in my class. I get a hundred on every spelling test every week. I practice my spelling words every day. If you use flash cards. You can learn to spell. Maybe you can practice with me. If you are lucky you can do the Spelling Bee. I won my class spelling Bee. That is why I spell really well.

Response Score: 2

A topic is introduced ("spelling") with limited awareness of the task of explaining how to spell to a younger person. The response is underdeveloped. The mention of practicing and flash cards does not explain how they will help. Ideas are somewhat connected ("If you," "That is why"). Inconsistent control of sentence formation is demonstrated; there is a fragment ("If you use flash cards"), and the response opens with a run-on ("I can spell really well I am the best speller in my class"). Adequate control of grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation is demonstrated; however, this alone is not enough to warrant a higher score for this brief response.

Play Pokemon white. I have it on my DS. It is really cool. I got it last year for my birth day. I chose Lippyup. I fought Lenora and I beat her and that was hard and I want to go home and play it now.

Response Score: 1

There is a minimal topic introduced ("Pokemon white"). There is little awareness of task, purpose, and audience. There is no explanation of how to play the game; there is instead only minimal content that demonstrates little understanding of the purpose ("I chose Lippyup. I fought Lenora"). Minimal control of sentence formation is demonstrated ("I fought . . . and I beat . . . and that . . . and I want"). Errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation ("burth day," "fighted," "beated").

Look at the picture of a house. What would it be like to visit a friend who lives at this house? Think about what you might do, who else might be there, and what might happen.

Write a story for your teacher about an adventure you could have visiting a friend at this house. Make sure your story has a beginning, middle, and end.

This is a story about visiting my friend Ethan at a house in the woods. Ethan is 8. I am 8 too. Ethan and I met on the playground. His house is just like my house but if has one special thing a secret door into a tree.

Ethan and I crossed the bridge. We were quite and tryd not to make noise. We tryd the door it was not locked. We went in. the walls had lights and we could see. We walked in and there were steps up and steps down. “Which way should we go” I asked. Ethan whesperd down.”

We went down. About half way down I fell. Boom. It was loud and I bumped Ethan. We both fell all the way to the bottom. BOOM BOOM BOOM. “Shhhh” said Ethan “I said sorry”. We herd a noiz. We stoped talking. “Who is there” a voiis said lowdr. Then we saw it. A great big…squirrel. “Who are you” we asked. “Who are you” asked the squirrel. Ethan said “I live in the house by this tree.” The squirrel said “I am the cookie maker” “Would you like a cookie?” the squirrel asked? “Yes” we both said at the same time. The cookie was warm and yummy. “Thank you” I said. “Thank you” said Ethan. We had fun with the squirrel. Next time we will try to go up the steps. Wondr what is up the steps?

Response Score: 4

A distinctly established situation orients the reader to the story about a house with a “secret door into a tree” and introduces the narrator and characters (his friend Ethan and a squirrel). There is an effective narrative pattern that sequences events. The response begins with the characters going through a door, discovering steps, and making a choice (up or down). The response continues as they tumble down the steps, meet a squirrel, and enjoy cookies. The response has a clever conclusion (“Next time we will try to go up the steps. Wondr what is up the steps?”). There is thorough elaboration and effective use of narrative techniques, including dialogue, dialogue tags (“whesperd”), and sound effects (“BOOM”). Consistent control of sentence formation is demonstrated, and some errors in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation do not interfere with meaning.
Hi! My name is Sara and I am going to tell you and adventure I had with my best friend Annie. It was a bright sunny day and I rode my shiny red bike over to Annies house. Her house is attached to a tree. We have always bugged her mom about the door on the tree and today was the day we were going to find out what was behind the door.

When I got to Annie’s house her Mom gave us a folded up note and said “Girls here is your first clue on your scavenger hunt to find the key to the door on the tree.” “Awesome” we replied. I opened the first note and read it out loud to Annie. “What is round and lets you see the outside?” “A window!” Annie said. We ran to the window but didn’t find a note. We ran to another window and there it was! The next note led us outside to the flowers. The third note led us to the bridge. Then we had to go look under her bed. We got tired but we finally found the key. “Sarah time to go home.” said her mom. “Oh no!” we both said. We will have to open the door tomorrow.

If you need additional space, please continue on the next page.
Response Score:  3

A clearly established situation about having a scavenger hunt to get the key orients the reader and introduces the narrator (Sara) and the characters (Annie and Annie’s mom). There is a narrative pattern that generally sequences events and provides a conclusion (“We will have to open the door tomorrow”) Sufficient elaboration supports the storyline (“We have always bugged her mom . . . today was the day,” “gave us a folded up note,” “read it out loud”). There is adequate use of narrative techniques to develop experiences and events (“we replied,” “We ran to the window but didn’t find a note”) There is adequate control of sentence formation. Some errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation.
My adventure at this house. My friend has a big bedroom in the tree. It is really cool and all made out of wood and I like to go there and we play there. We play games and do fun pyrat stuff like sword fight or look for Treor. Some times the Treor is out in the gardin and we dig in the gardin. And we have snak then my Mom calls and I have to go home. That alway make me sad.

Response Score: 2

There is a situation (playing at a friend’s house) that orients the reader and introduces the characters (“My freind,” “my Mom”). A weak narrative pattern sequences the events with limited use of transitions (“We play,” “have snak then my Mom calls and I have to go home”). There is weak elaboration that somewhat supports the storyline (“made out of wood”). There is inconsistent control of sentence formation as the writer over-coordinates and creates run-on sentences. Errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation.
The picture of the house. A story for your teacher. An adventure I old hav at a friend house. The house is stuck to a tree. It has window and door and roof and walk and flower and grass and look nice and I go there to play wif mi frend.

Response Score: 1

There is minimal evidence of a situation and/or theme, with only the topic of a house. A narrative pattern is not established, and there are no events beyond “I go there to play wif mi frend”. This brief response does attempt to describe a setting (“the picture”) in a listed manner; however, this does not support a storyline. There is minimal control of sentence formation, since there are fragmented and run-on sentences. There are many errors present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation.
